HERE are two new posters. In order to make use of them, cut the colored drawings from the page, closely following the outline of the colored picture. The colored clipping should then be pasted securely to a piece of rich, dark-green poster board, 20x30 inches in size. This completes the poster; but much added beauty may be secured by a simple frame. The necessary poster board may be purchased at any art dealer's at a price not exceeding 15 cents. In the absence of the poster board heavy wrapping paper, which may be had in colors, will serve. Another way of cutting the poster clippings from this sheet involves the leaving of about an eighth of an inch of the white paper as a border, which aids in setting off the central design.
